Notes

The Plant Club’s secretaries typically reported only a speaker’s last name and honorific, e.g., Miss Eastwood or Mrs. Metcalf, Mr. Hans or Prof. Harris. Thanks to genealogical databases and historical newspapers, I was able to add first names and middle names (or at least initials) for most speakers. (I have included middle names, even where it was apparent that a speaker’s own preference was to use a middle initial, in order to make this index as useful as possible to future researchers.)

I was also able to add the maiden names of many of the married women who spoke to the Plant Club. The effort was time-consuming, but it was gratifying to add an extra dimension of recognition to the women speakers.

Fact-checking revealed some misspelled names as well as some mistakes in academic titles in the Plant Club’s record books. Accordingly, this index not only gives fuller names, but corrected spellings and titles.

In fewer than 20 cases was I unable to provide an expanded name or maiden name. However, the successful name searches – over 300 – led me to some discoveries about the club that I might not have otherwise made, allowing me to connect dots in the club’s history. Indeed, some of the features in the history began as name searches.

This index also indicates whether a speaker was a Plant Club member, or if related to a member, the relationship. In addition, I have also noted if a speaker had an affiliation to another garden club. Non-garden club affiliations are noted in the text.

Regarding member speakers, their inclusion – or not – was a matter of judgment. Where a presentation was brief, I did not count it as a talk.

Certain members regularly reported to the club on committee work and activities with other organizations. These very active club members are acknowledged in text features.

Finally, the minutes of Plant Club programs between January 1961 and October 1965 are missing. Other club documents have allowed me to add a few speakers and talk titles from these years, but the names of most speakers from 1961–65 are lost to history.
